WORKING FOR THE FUTURE

(RE)THINK YOUR FOOD WASTE

Why consider food waste recycling?

Businesses like restaurants, cafes and hotels produce large amounts of food waste, which can be turned into new products like compost, mulch and fertiliser.

REMONDIS offers a comprehensive food waste recycling service to support businesses to create a more sustainable future by reducing the waste sent to landfill and reducing your carbon footprint. By investing in food organics, you'll be able to:

Did you know that food waste in landfills produce methane gas? This is 25 times more potent than carbon dioxide.

- Reduce the cost of your general waste by separating out food, which is often heavy and wet.
- Protect your business against increasing landfill levies, which are charged for general waste going to landfill but not for recyclable organic food waste.
- If recycling food waste is new for you, we'll provide you with a full educational and promotional pack so that you can showcase your efforts to customers and easily train your staff to separate out food from your general rubbish.

How does food waste recycling work?

REMONDIS provides a complete waste management solution that solves all your waste needs:

- We will provide a dedicated food organics bin and educational pack, so you can separate your food from other waste streams
- Working with you, we will conduct a waste audit to assess an appropriate collection frequency according to your needs. These can always be increased or decreased if your needs change.
- Once food waste is collected it is taken to a nearby fully-accredited facility, where it is then processed and given a new lease on life as energy, compost, and liquid fertilisers.
